On date 20 September 2018, a state level conclave was organized at Pt. Deen Dayal Upadhyay auditorium Raipur. Shree Brij Mohan Agrawal, minister of Water Resources Department, Agriculture & Bio Technology was presented as chief guest. In this event other ministers of Chhattisgh were present. Students of MSIT, MATS University attended the conclave and there was a lot of things to learn from this conclave. Chief Guest said that that the identities of Chhattisgarh are only from the water tank. Many of Chhattisgarh's sayings also reveal the importance of ponds. Villas of Bilaspur are called Ratanpur, Malhar, Khurud etc. villages are called 'Chhagar Aagar, Chhori Kori' which means 126 ponds. The villages of Sarguja, Bastar are considered as 'Seven ocean seven kori', that is, a village with 147 ponds. He said that the state's irrigation potential has grown quite a lot now. We are making constant efforts to make arrangements for the betterment of our government. For this, schemes like 'Bhainsjhar, Kelo' project, Sutiapat and Mohad have been operated. Earlier, all the villages used to have ponds and wells. A dam was also built in villages near the rivers.
